T-Rex Replica

The Replica is widely accepted as being the greatest delay pedal in the world, even receiving the Guitar Player Magazine Editor's Pick Award. The Replica was designed to give you the clean performance of a digital delay, yet with the warmth of an all-tube echo. Check out the features below to see why Carlos Santana, Gary Moore, John Mayor, Steve Morse and many others have a Replica on their pedal board!

Brown Switch:

A high-cut filter that alters the tone of the repeats

Level Control:

Controls the overall volume of the signal

Echo Control:

Determines the amount of processed signal in the mix.

Tempo Control:

Sets the delay time, from 12 milliseconds to 1500 milliseconds.

Repeat Control:

Determines the number of repeats in the delayed signal

On/Off Switch:

Turns the delay on and off

Tap Tempo:

A footswitch that allows you to tap the delay time while playing

Subdivision Switch:

Generates quarter note triplets of the tapped or dialed-in tempo.
